

Reviewer Conflict of Interest Statement

Proposal reviewers for Florida Campus Compact’s Day Institute Series must perform all functions related to the review and rating of competitive proposals with professional discernment and objectivity. While reviewers are responsible for making recommendations (not final decisions in this process), it is critical that any/all recommendations are made with impartiality toward all applicants.

Having been apprised of the competitors and the nature of the project, each reviewer will sign this Reviewer Conflict of Interest Statement attesting that s/he has no:

- Personal interest in the project reviewed (i.e. direct financial compensation from the project reviewed)<sup>1</sup>;
- Personal interest in any entity that may receive the grant award (i.e. a current or former employer);
- Prior or present relationship with anyone involved in this project (i.e. Spouse, children, parents, in-laws, or other familial relations); or
- Other relationship with any of the proposed project leaders that may result in reviewer bias; this includes intimate relationships beyond that of a professional level or acquaintance.
